A THOUGHTFUL PARTNER IN LITERACY SUPPORT

Hill Education Services provides individualized literacy instruction for children, adolescents, and adults. Services span foundational reading, fluency, and comprehension as well as practical literacy skills for daily living, vocational preparation, and employment. Instruction is responsive to each learner's strengths, goals, and progress, with a focus on building independence, confidence, and meaningful participation in school, work, and everyday life.

MEET SUSAN HILL

Susan Hill, M.A., M.Ed., M.S., LBS, is a Reading Specialist with a professional background in special education and behavior analysis. She brings an individualized, learner-centered approach to instruction and values collaboration with families and the professionals supporting each learner.

AREAS OF SUPPORT

FOUNDATIONAL READING

Phonemic awareness, phonics, decoding, and word recognition

FLUENCY

Accuracy, automaticity, and expressive oral reading

COMPREHENSION & LANGUAGE

Vocabulary development, comprehension, and reading strategies

FUNCTIONAL & LIFE-SKILLS LITERACY

Everyday reading, forms, schedules, instructions, and self-advocacy

VOCATIONAL & EMPLOYMENT LITERACY

Applications, workplace documents, job-related reading, and communication

INDIVIDUALIZED LEARNING

Goal-based support for learners with ADHD, autism, and other learning differences

WHEN AN INDIVIDUAL OR FAMILY MIGHT BENEFIT

Support may be helpful when a learner has persistent reading challenges or needs explicit instruction in practical literacy skills for greater independence. Services can complement recommendations following educational or neuropsychological evaluations, including for individuals with ADHD/ADD, autism, and other learning differences.

LET'S CONNECT

I welcome opportunities to connect with neuropsychologists, psychologists, pediatric providers, educators, transition teams, vocational professionals, and other community specialists. I would be happy to share more about my services and explore ways to support the individuals and families we serve.
